PATHWAYS TO PROGRESS

Jodee Warner – Senior Associate

As the Senior Associate, Events Manager at Pyxis Partners, Jodee Warner brings 20+ years of developing relationships, implementing programs, project management, and brand development to the team. Her national and international marketing and event management experience helps to drive forward the firm's engagement efforts for the National Institutes of Health's All of Us Research Program (AoURP). Prior to her work with Pyxis Partners, Jodee was the Executive Director at CTIPA, a startup nonprofit with a focus on communication and grassroots efforts. While there, she was responsible for strategy development and program implementation.

With a diverse career background, Jodee's strengths include her ability to lead teams and produce successfully planned events in support of key business goals. She holds a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a focus on Marketing from her HBCU Alma Matter, Bowie State University in Bowie, Maryland.

Jodee Warner started out life in the Caribbean and later moved to a small town in the Midwest where she is the first African-American woman to graduate from her high school since it was constructed in 1865. Jodee is also a proud US Army Veteran and a devoted mother of a Spectacor high school aged son. In her free time, Jodee can be found taking long walks near water, traveling, or playing a competitive game of gin rummy somewhere.
